Windows 8 and the new Office are here. Experience what's in it for you.

A Microsoft Experience Center (MEC) session is a hands-on introduction to Windows 8 and the new Office that gives you an opportunity to experience these powerful new productivity solutions for yourself.

A MEC session is not a generic demo. It is a true-to-life user experience that takes you through common work-related scenarios. These include: working remotely, leveraging social networking to locate expertise and share information, and connecting in real time with coworkers and customers. A MEC session also gives you a first-hand look at the fast and fluid experience of Windows 8 and the exciting features of the new Office across a variety of devices, including tablets, PCs, and smartphones.

Why should you come to a MEC session?

Participating in a MEC session is the best way to learn about business productivity tools and technologies without sales pressure. Sessions are led by a trained facilitator and are designed to be interactive, experiential, and fun. Attend a MEC session and explore how Windows 8 and the new Office can help you take business productivity to the next level.

Attending a MEC session will give you the opportunity to experience these aspects of Windows 8 and the new Office:

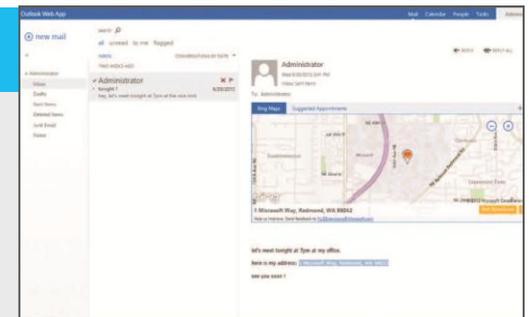

Devices

Explore a streamlined user experience across tablets, PCs and smartphones

Cloud

Discover a personalized experience that goes where you go, with Office apps and anywhere access to documents

Social

Use social media to get work done using microblogs, newsfeeds, and the ability to follow people, shared documents and sites

Control

Learn how you can keep your organization safe by protecting sensitive information while meeting regulatory compliance requirements
